RELEVANT PROJECT WORK

Retrieved powerlifting data from a homegrown database and ingested into Jupyter Notebook. Using the Pandas library, and munging census region, census division, and political mapping data, I was interested in seeing if powerlifting participation rates increased or decreased. List creation and grouping data were some of the techniques used in Python.